Practicing Physiotherapy in Canada

There are over 20,000 physiotherapists registered in Canada, working in both public and private settings. Physiotherapists are primary healthcare providers who practice independently as part of a core healthcare team, providing patients with direct access to physiotherapy treatment without the necessity of a referral from another healthcare provider.

Physiotherapy is a regulated profession in Canada, meaning that it is illegal to use the titles of physiotherapist, physical therapist, or physiothérapeute or use any short form (abbreviations) of these titles (such as PT or pht) without a license from the proper provincial or territorial organization.

Physiotherapy licenses are given out by organizations that are dedicated to ensuring the safety of physiotherapy in their respective provinces or territories. Collectively, these organizations are known as regulators, and are often referred to as Colleges though they are different from places of learning. As every provincial regulator is unique in some way, you should be sure to contact the appropriate one to make sure that you have the most up-to-date information on applying for a physiotherapist license. This information will also be available online.

The Canadian Alliance of Physiotherapy Regulators (CAPR) assesses credentials and administers the Physiotherapy Competency Examination (PCE) on behalf of the provincial and territorial regulators. Though the regulators decide who does or does not receive a license, they depend on CAPR for information and evaluating applicants.

Internationally trained applicants seeking a Canadian physiotherapy license must pass through two stages of qualification: credentialling, and the Physiotherapy Competency Exam (PCE), whilst Canadian-trained physiotherapists are eligible to attempt the PCE upon graduation from a Canadian physiotherapy program. Credentialling must be completed prior to examination; it determines if your physiotherapy education is substantially equivalent to the education that is available in Canada. The PCE has both a written and clinical component that assesses your knowledge and practical physiotherapy skills.

To begin credentialling, and your journey to becoming a licensed Canadian physiotherapist, please visit CAPR web-page at http://www.alliancept.org/credential_applicants_applying.php to access the necessary forms. This guide will also help you in the application process.

Remember, credentialling can begin even before you arrive in Canada, so you can start today!

1 With the exception of Québec, the Northwest Territories, and Nunavut.
The Licensing & Registration Process

Step 1 - Decide which province/territory you want to work in and find out what the regulator requires

Does the regulator require the PCE?

- YES
  - Did you receive your physiotherapy education in Canada?
    - YES
      - Apply for PCE
      - Complete regulator’s other requirements & apply for licensing/registration
    - NO
      - Has CAPR assessed your educational credentials and found them not substantially different?
        - YES
          - Consider your career and training options
        - NO
          - Apply for credentialling

- NO
  - Complete the regulator requirements & apply for licensing/registration
Before Applying

It is important to decide where you will live and work in Canada before applying for credentialling, because each physiotherapy regulator has specific rules and regulations.

The mandatory requirements in all provinces and the Yukon, with the exception of Quebec are:

- Successful completion of the credentialling process, including proof of language proficiency; and,
- Completion of the Physiotherapy Competency Examination.

Additional requirements may include:

- A jurisprudence exam that tests your knowledge of laws and rules relating to the practice of physiotherapy;
- Evidence of being of good character in jurisdictions in which you have already worked; and,
- An additional language proficiency test. The bilingual nature of Canada means that different parts of the country have different language requirements. For example, the primary language of Quebec is French and New Brunswick is officially bilingual. This means that if you will live in Quebec or New Brunswick, you may have to take an additional language test other than the one you submitted for your credentialling assessment.

Remember: It is important to contact the individual provincial or territorial regulator prior to beginning credentialling to find out about any additional requirements for practicing in your location of choice.

Steps During the Credentialling Process

To determine whether or not your physiotherapy education is similar (not substantially different) to what is available in Canada, CAPR uses five criteria. For greater detail on each criterion, please refer to Policy 2.1 Credentialling Standards.

Criterion 1: Verification of Identity through authentic and valid documentation. (see also Policy 2.3 – Fraudulent / Irregular Documents and Cheating);

Criterion 2: Completion of a university level, entry-to-practice degree in physiotherapy

Criterion 3: Successful Completion of a minimum of 1025 hours of supervised clinical practice

Criterion 4: Fluency in either English or French (see also Policy 2.2 - Language Proficiency Policy)

Criterion 5: Knowledge of the practice of physiotherapy within the Canadian healthcare system

How to Send Your Application and Documents

In order to process your application we will need all the documents listed below. Some of them you will provide, the other documents must be provided by your educational institution, and in some cases by a language testing agency. If the documents are in a language other than French or English, certified translations must be provided. With the exception of translations, only notarized copies of original documents will be accepted. CAPR makes no guarantees regarding the return of original documents if sent. (See related policies 2.4 Notarized Copies; 2.5 Translated Documents; and 2.6 Incomplete Applications.). For applicants educated in Bangladesh, China, Cuba, Egypt, India, Pakistan, The Philippines or Ukraine we will require documentation to be submitted to us from institutions other than your educational institution. Please refer to Appendix 1 for more information.
Documents You Must Send to CAPR

All documents must be received before your application will be processed.

1. Application Form
   The Application Form (Form A) must be complete, and the waiver must be signed and dated.

2. Fee
   Credentialling fees are subject to change. Please refer to the current Application Form (Form A) for the current credentialling fee. The fee is payable to “Canadian Alliance of Physiotherapy Regulators” by money order, cashier’s cheque, international bank draft or credit card. Debit cards, debit credit cards and personal cheques are not accepted. If for any reason our bank returns your payment to us (e.g. credit card declines, account overdraft) an additional $75 charge applies. We must receive all fees before processing your application.

3. Identity documents
   See the Declaration of Identity Form and instructions (Form C) for details about the types of identity documents we need from you.

4. Proof of legal name change
   You need to send this only if you have changed your legal name. If you have changed your name, you must send us a notarized copy of the legal document showing your name change (e.g. a marriage certificate).

5. Notarized Copy of Diploma, Degree, or Certificate
   We need this from your university-level, entry-to-practice physiotherapy education.

6. Application Checklist
   This checklist (Form B) indicates documents required to support your application.

Documents Your Physiotherapy School Must Send to CAPR

1. Document Request Form
   You must send the Document Request Form (Form D) to the school where you obtained your entry-to-practice, university level (or equivalent) physiotherapy degree. This form lists all the documents your school must send to us and includes instructions for your school on providing them. We will keep all school documents for two years while waiting for the rest of your application. If your application is not received within two years, we will destroy the school documents. We will not accept the form or the documents listed on the form if we receive them from anyone other than your physiotherapy school.

2. Official Transcript
   We must receive your official transcript (also called marksheets, academic records, or diploma supplement) directly from the issuing institution where you gained your physiotherapy credential. You may need to contact the records department or registrar at your university to request this document.

3. Graduation Verification
   If your university has issued you a diploma or degree, then you must submit a notarized copy with your application. In the event that you are applying for credentialing after you have completed all your degree requirements but before your graduation, you should send the Graduation Verification Form to your school along with the Document Request Form. This will allow your school to confirm that you have completed the program. CAPR will also accept an official letter from the applicant’s schools detailing the applicant’s graduation status in lieu of the Graduation Verification Form, as long as the letter supplies all the information required by the Form. (See also Policy 2.7 - Graduation Verification
Documents Other Institutions Must Send to CAPR

The language testing agency must send your original language proficiency score sheet to our office. Contact the language test centre to find out how you can order your official language test score sheets. We will not accept the language test score sheet from anyone other than the issuing institution. While we may start your assessment before we have received your language test score (where required), we cannot complete the assessment without this information. We strongly advise that you arrange to have your language test scores submitted at the same time that you arrange to have your school documents submitted. Without the language test information we cannot complete your assessment and we cannot send you an assessment results letter; your assessment will be put on hold.

Incomplete Applications

All applications received by CAPR must be complete before credentialling can begin. If we receive an incomplete application it will be returned unevaluated to the applicant. Please ensure that you have collected all the documents on the checklist before submitting your application. (See also Policy 2.6 - Incomplete Applications)

Notarized Copies

CAPR does NOT accept original documents in credentialling application packages. If you send original documents, CAPR makes no guarantees of the safe return or storage of those documents, and we will consider your application incomplete. All documents sent to us must be notarized copies, (with the exception of certified translations). (See also Policy 2.4 – Notarized Copies)

Translated Documents

All documents that are sent to CAPR in a language other than English or French must be sent along with a translation. CAPR will only accept translations performed by a certified or ‘official’ translator. (See also Policy 2.5 – Translated Documents)

There are three ways that translated documents can be submitted to CAPR:

Method 1

Applicants, or their representatives, can have the documents that would normally be acceptable to be received from the applicant (eg. Degree, identity documents) translated by a certified translator and then sent to us.

1. Take the original documents in the native/original language to a notary public.
2. Ask the notary public to make copies of your native/original language documents and notarize the copies.
3. Send these notarized documents to a certified translator.
4. Ask the translator to translate the documents word for word. The certified translator must attach the notarized documents in the original language to the certified translation.
5. Send the translated documents you received from the certified translator along with the notarized copies of school documents to us. We need the original translation. We will not accept a copy of the translated document even if you have the copy notarized.

Method 2

A university can forward documents translated by that university’s official translator, along with the documents in the original language, directly to CAPR.

1. The applicant requests that their school sends documents to CAPR.
2. CAPR will accept the documents and their translations directly from the school, as translated by the school’s officially appointed translator.
Method 3

A university can forward un-translated documents, which will then be forwarded to the applicant to be translated by a certified translator and then sent directly to CAPR.

1. A school sends un-translated documents to CAPR.
2. Alliance marked photocopies of the un-translated document are sent to the applicant.
3. The applicant takes the marked photocopies to a certified translator.
4. The certified translator sends the translation directly to CAPR, along with the marked photocopies.

CAPR will not accepted notarized copies of translations. All translations received by CAPR must be originals.

Fraudulent or Irregular Documents or Cheating

All documents that you or your representative submit to CAPR will be checked to ensure that they are valid. If your application contains fraudulent documents or evidence of cheating, your application will be closed, your application fee will not be refunded and we will notify partner organizations affected. For further information, see Policy 2.3 - Fraudulent/Irregular Documents and Cheating.

Acknowledgement and Status of Application

Once we have processed your application and documents, we will assign you a Personal Identification Number (PIN) and email it to you. Once you receive your PIN you can check the status of your application on our website. Please go to the Credentialling section of our website at www.alliancept.org, select “Notices to Applicants” and look for “Credentialling Applicants Status Update”.

Acknowledgement of Documents

The Client Services Team will check all the documents received for your assessment. If the documents are not in the format we need, we will send you a Document Checklist with instructions on how to submit your documents correctly. Once all documents have been received in the proper format, your file will be considered ‘Inventory Complete’. At this point we will begin your assessment and indicate this on our website.

Communication with Applicants

If you want to know that we have received your application and documents, you can:

• Send them by registered mail or use a courier service that gives you confirmation;
• Contact our Receptionist/Intake Assistant by telephone or email.

If you have any questions about the application you have submitted or will submit, please contact CAPR Client Services Team by email at email@alliancept.org or by phone at 416.234.8800.

If you have any questions about your assessment after you have received your assessment results, you can contact your Credentialling Officer. You will be assigned a credentialling officer once your assessment results are released to you.
Assessment Process

When we have received all the required documents and your file is ready for assessment, we will work with credential assessment agencies to evaluate your file.

During this process, we will determine if we have a precedent case that we can use to assess your education and qualifications. A “precedent case” means we have completed a credential review of an applicant from the same physiotherapy program as you, who graduated in the same year as you did, with a similar course of study, using the same credentialling standards. If we have a precedent case, we will assess your file using the precedent file. If we determine that we do not have a precedent case, we will first send your file to one of the credential assessment agencies we work with to determine the level of your education, the focus of your education, and the recognition status of the institution.

If you have applied for immigration to Canada as of May 2013 as the principle applicant in the Federal Skilled Worker Program, you can complete part of our credentialling process with your immigration assessment. This may reduce your overall credentialling time. For more information, please see the government of Canada website: http://www.credentials.gc.ca/.

A Credentialling Officer will assess the rest of your file for valid identification and documentation, supervised clinical practice hours, language proficiency, and evidence of knowledge of physiotherapy practice in the Canadian healthcare context.

Outcomes of the Credentialling Process

The possible assessment results from the credentialling process include:

- Education is not substantially different from Canadian education: Applicants are eligible for the Physiotherapy Competency Examination (PCE). The first attempt of the written component of the PCE must happen before the eligibility expires, two years from the date of the successful result letter.

- Minor gaps in supervised clinical practice hours: When an applicant does not meet the required hours of supervised clinical practice, they may be eligible to address these gaps through work experience.

- Major gaps in academic credentials: Applicants are informed their credentials and qualifications are substantially different and they are not eligible to apply for the PCE. Major gaps are:
  - the applicant’s physiotherapy education is not at university level; or
  - the applicant’s physiotherapy education is not at entry-to-practice level; or
  - the applicant’s education is not in physiotherapy; or
  - the applicant completed less than 820 hours of university-level supervised clinical practice as part of their formal physiotherapy education.

If you disagree with the outcome of your assessment, you may apply to have an Administrative Reconsideration. For more information, please refer to the Appeals Policy for Evaluation Services.

Context of Physiotherapy Practice in Canada

All applicants educated outside Canada must complete a course on the Context of Physiotherapy Practice in Canada. This course must include a formal method of evaluation.

Online and in-class room versions of this course are available from multiple Canadian universities and can be started during the credentialling process. We will send you information on available course options after you apply for Credentialling.
Provisional Eligibility to Take the Exam

You may be eligible to apply for the next available administration of the Written Component of the Physiotherapy Competency Exam and/or pre-register for the next Clinical Component if you have successfully completed all of the credentialling requirements but have not yet completed the “Context of Physiotherapy Practice in Canada” course, provided you have registered for it. You can contact your credentialling officer for more information once your results are released.

Steps after the Credentialling Process:

Physiotherapy Competency Examination

All provincial and territorial regulators (except Québec) require applicants to take the Physiotherapy Competency Examination (PCE) in order to become a licensed physiotherapist in Canada. CAPR administers the PCE. If we decide that your education and qualifications are not substantially different from those of a Canadian-educated physiotherapist, you will be eligible to take the PCE.

We will send a copy of your Successful Result letter, a copy of your Declaration of Identity, and your scanned photograph to the Exam department. You can apply for the next available administration of the examination once you receive your Successful Result letter or a Provisional Eligibility letter (see Provisional Eligibility to Take the Exam, above).

For more information about the exam, visit our website (http://www.alliancept.org/exams_candidates_registering.php) and download the current PCE Exam Policies and the PCE Application Process, Dates and Fees Guide. Alternatively, contact our office and ask us to mail you a copy.

You have two years from your successful result letter to address any outstanding issues – such as completing coursework regarding physiotherapy practice in the Canadian healthcare context – and attempt the written component of the PCE for the first time.

Failure to do so within the two year eligibility period will result in your file being closed. To re-open your file, you will need to request a Re-opened File Review. There is a fee for this, and due to changing standards, there is no guarantee that you will continue to be eligible. (see Policy 2.9 – Expiration of Credentialling Results).

Provisional Licensing

Some regulators may be able to grant you a temporary, restricted, or supervised licence to practice physiotherapy between the time of your successful completion of the credentialling process and the completion of the clinical portion of the exam. Please contact your local regulator for details.

If you want us to provide a regulator with verification that you have completed credentialling and are eligible to take the exam, please complete and send the Verification Request Form to CAPR. We will send verification within ten business days of receiving the form.

Licensing or Registration by Your Provincial or Territorial Regulator

Once you have passed both parts of the PCE and have fulfilled all of the requirements of the regulator in the province or territory in which you want to practice, you can apply to that regulator to become a fully licensed or registered physiotherapist.

Québec has similar requirements based Québec-specific provincial legislation.
Refunds

An application is valid for a year from the time it is received by us. If either you or your educational institution do not send us the required documents within a year, we will close your file and you will lose your fees. To complete credentialling you will have to start a new file and pay the standard fees.

If you send CAPR more money than is required, CAPR will return the remainder to you after all credentialling fees have been deducted. All other fees are non-refundable. However, you may send us a written request for a partial refund if you have to withdraw or cancel your application due to extenuating circumstances.

Privacy Policy

CAPR is committed to collecting, using and disclosing the personal information of the credentialling applicants responsibly and only to the extent necessary to provide effective services. We are also committed to adhering to the principles of the Personal Information and Protection of Electronic Documents Act, 2000 (PIPEDA), and to letting you know what we do with your information. For more information, please see the Privacy Policy posted on our website.
Glossary

Academic record
An official document or a record of a student’s enrolment, progress, and achievement within an educational institution. It identifies courses taken (title and course number), credits and grades achieved, and credentials earned. It may include information about work terms/industrial placement, thesis and research, and the final award conferred.

Accreditation
Approval of the academic standards of an educational program or institution by an independent designated regulatory or accrediting authority.

Accrediting body
A designated competent authority legally entitled to accredit an institution, program, or module of study within the context of an education system. Accrediting bodies can be (but are not necessarily) mandated by legislation or by regulatory bodies and can consist of government representatives, stakeholder representatives, external academic experts, and professional regulatory bodies.

In Canada, Physiotherapy Education Accreditation Canada (PEAC) conducts accreditation reviews of Canada’s fourteen Physiotherapist education programs. All physiotherapist programs in Canada currently hold an accredited status.

Affidavit
A written declaration on oath made before a legally authorized official.

Award
A generic term for qualifications earned through successful completion of a program of studies.

Bridging program
A set of courses designed specifically to provide a person who already possesses certain qualifications with the additional abilities and knowledge required for admission into a specific program.

Certified translation
A translation of a document conducted by a certified translator who is certified by a government organization such as the Association of Translators and Interpreters of Ontario. For international translators, CAPR standard is a translator who has been certified by a member organization of the International Federation of Translators.

Certified translated copy
A copy of a document that was in a language other than English or French, but that has been translated word for word to English or French by a certified translator. The certified translator must translate from the original document or from a notarized copy of the original document, and then must officially sign or stamp the translated copy.

Competence
A demonstrated ability to apply knowledge or skills, and where relevant, demonstrated personal attributes, as defined by, or that meet or exceed, a standard of performance.

Credential
A documented evidence of learning based on completion of a recognized program of study.
Credential Assessment Body

An organization that assesses international credentials and qualifications. In Canada, this includes regulatory bodies, postsecondary institutions, trades and professions, and provincial and other academic credential assessment services.

Credentialling

The process of examining a credential / assessing the educational credentials and qualifications of physiotherapists educated outside Canada, also known as the Educational Credentials and Qualifications Assessment. If you are a physiotherapist educated outside of Canada and you want to become licensed or registered in most provinces and territories in Canada, you must have your educational credentials and qualifications assessed by CAPR. (We sometimes refer to this as "going through the credentialling process.")

Credit

A unit used to express the value of a course or other training activity in relation to the total requirements for a degree, diploma, or certificate, usually measured in hours of study or achievement of threshold standard or both.

Degree

A title awarded by a university or other authorized academic institution for successful completion of a program of academic study.

Degree mill

An organization that uses the names of non-existent universities or establishes a university without proper authorization to sell documents that are not supported by appropriate study or examinations.

Diploma mill

An organization that sells documents not supported by appropriate study or examinations that operates without the supervision of a state or professional agency. It issues diplomas that are either fraudulent or, because the school does not meet proper standards, worthless.

Diploma Supplement

A document produced by national institutions in many European countries that is appended to credentials and provides a description of the nature, level, context, content, and status of studies pursued and successfully completed by the holder of the credential. Attached to the diploma supplement is a description of the national higher education system within which the individual named on the original qualification graduated.

Entry to Practice – Entry-level Education in Physiotherapy

The formal physiotherapy education, which once completed, prepares a graduate to practice as a physiotherapist in the country where the education was completed.

Equivalency

A relationship of parity established between one system, jurisdiction or institution and another with respect to the value and significance of courses, diplomas, certificates, degrees or credentials. Recognized equality of value between courses, programs, parts of programs, diplomas or forms of training.

Fraudulent credential / document

A document that has been modified or reproduced without authorization of the original issuing body. A fraudulent document is also considered forged if it is claimed that it was issued by a legal entity that did not issue it.
Fraudulent credential or fraudulent document modifications may include:

- The addition of subjects or statements or information to an academic credential or academic records or a document (identity documents, membership certificate, etc.)
- The alteration of grades or examination results on an academic credential or transcript or the alteration of any information on a document
- The substitution of names on an academic credential or academic records (whereby the academic information is true and accurate but pertains to a different individual) or substitution of information on a document
- The counterfeiting of an entire credential or an academic record or a document

Higher Education

Formal education that follows secondary education.

Issuing Authority

The institution or authority that granted the credential or license or issued the document or a centralized agency established and authorized by an appropriate government agency to collect, issue, and verify records pertaining to a credential.

Jurisprudence Exam

A jurisprudence exam tests your knowledge of rules that apply to physiotherapy practice.

Labour Mobility

The ability to move freely from one jurisdiction to another and to gain entry into a profession or trade without undue obstacles or hindrances. For example, the eligibility of a practitioner registered in one jurisdiction to practice in another jurisdiction without undergoing further training or assessment.

Learning outcome

The specification of what a student should learn or can do as the result of a period of specified study or as a result of completing a course of study.

Notarized copy

A copy that has been made of an official document and that a notary public has certified. The notary public must see the original document, must make a photocopy from the original document and then must sign and stamp the copy and provide their name, address and phone number. The notary public attests that the copy is identical to the original document from which the photocopy is made.

Notary public

A notary public is a person who is authorized by a province or country to certify that copied documents are true copies of the originals. The person who certifies your documents must have the legal authority to do so. The work of a notary public is recognized internationally. (Police officers, pharmacists, Justices of the Peace, and Commissioners of Oaths cannot certify documents that you submit to CAPR).

Objective structured clinical exam (OSCE)

An exam that tests your ability to safely and effectively apply the principles and processes of physiotherapy practice. In an OSCE, you go through several stations that are set up to be like situations you will encounter in your career. Each station has a standardized patient with a clinical problem. You are tested on how you communicate with and treat the patient as well as what you know. An examiner marks you based on a standardized list of questions and criteria.
Official document

A document that has been sent in a sealed envelope from the issuing institution to CAPR and that has never been in possession of anyone other than the institution that issued it.

Prior Learning Assessment and Recognition (PLAR)

The process of identifying and measuring skills and knowledge acquired outside educational institutions. Prior learning recognition is based on assessment of skills and knowledge acquired through professional or life experience.

Recognized institution

An academic institution that is recognized by a government for the purpose of awarding academic credentials.

Regulator / Regulatory body

An organization that has legislated authority to carry out the governing legislation of a profession. Such organizations may also be referred to as regulatory authorities or regulatory colleges. For the profession of physiotherapy, the regulator is the authority in a province or territory that licenses or registers physiotherapists to practice in that province or territory. In Canada, most provincial regulatory organizations are called "colleges," but they are not the same as educational institutions.

Sealed envelope

An envelope used to transmit official academic documents or other official documents. It is also a criterion used to identify whether or not a document could be considered official. If the document is sent directly by the issuing institution to the recipient and if the seal is unbroken when the envelope reaches the recipient, the document could be considered official. It is the recipient who ultimately determines if the document is official.

Semester / Academic Session

A division of the academic year, usually two semesters in a year, the length of which is determined by the institution.

The school year is divided into three sessions: fall (August to December), winter (January to May), and summer (May to July). However, some programs may be offered on a continuing basis throughout the year, or may include a summer practical training course.

Statutory declaration

A legal document commonly used to allow a person to affirm something to be true for the purposes of satisfying legal requirement or regulation when no other evidence is available. It is similar to an affidavit; however, it is not sworn or made on oath.

Substantially equivalent

Substantially equivalent means that there is reasonable confidence that the education and qualifications of different individuals are highly similar and that the individuals possess similar competencies. For example, if your educational credentials and qualifications are substantially equivalent to those of a Canadian-educated physiotherapist, your education was similar and has prepared you in a similar manner to that of a Canadian educated physiotherapist, even though you may not have studied exactly the same courses.

Supervised Clinical Practice / Internship

Supervised clinical practice consists of supervised and evaluated experience as a physiotherapist-in-training within an entry to practice program, where the student gains practical experience and engages in a range of professional opportunities in various settings, for the purpose of learning and applying physiotherapy knowledge, skills, behaviours and clinical reasoning. Supervised clinical practice does not include academic classroom hours or practice on other students or staff. (Adapted from the 2011 Clinical Education Guidelines for Canadian University Programs.)
Transcript

The official document or record of a student’s enrolment, progress, and achievement within an educational institution. It identifies courses taken (title and course number), credits and grades achieved, and credentials earned. It may include information about work terms/industrial placement, thesis and research, and the final award conferred. This may also be called an “academic record” or “marksheet.”

Verification

The process of confirming the authenticity of documents through direct contact with the issuing authority and/or centralized agency that is authorized to verify academic credentials.
